

I strongly oppose the motion being recommended by the Consumer Banker's Association, to impose the established business relationship to existing account relations with banks. I have multiple accounts with different banking institutions and desire to keep my relationships with them personal; I do not believe they have the right to telephone and harass me under a pretense that I already have given them permission because I have an account. That is a false pretense to harass me.